

K PROGRAM FOLIO K

Vol 1 #12

DEC. 28, 1959 - JAN. 10, 1960

90.7 MC FM

THANK YOU

Special contributions from KPFK subscribers last month have made it possible to meet part of the station's construction deficit. We are very grateful to you. Here are the results of your generous giving: *$5,500 has been donated as a result of our announcements on the air and mail appeals. $3,800 in contributions resulted from personal visits by a member of our staff.

The cooperation of a Los Angeles foundation, which has long supported Pacifica, and the generosity of several individual families have enabled KPFK to order a new transmitter. Its total cost, with remote control is $20,000, which has almost been met. The new transmitter, with its increased power, will be delivered and installed in March. Thereafter, with a reliable, top quality signal, KPFK will broadcast in the morning hours as well as in the afternoon and evening. (More about the transmitter in a future Folio.)

Our deepest appreciation to all of you who have made the new transmitter possible, and to you who have contributed so generously toward our construction deficit. Of course, to meet the entire construction deficit many additional contributions are needed. We hope that more of you will respond as soon as you are able.

During November there were 706 new and renewal subscriptions to KPFK, bringing the total number of subscribers to 4,487. Income from subscriptions, thus, continues to meet the operating costs of the station.

(*All sums represent the period of November 1 through 30, the day this Folio goes to press.)

PACIFICA IN NEW YORK

Pacifica Foundation, of which KPFK is a part, has been given a station in New York City. It will begin listener-subscription operation on January 10. The gift of WBAI-FM was made by Louis Schweitzer. The station's signal covers fourteen million people, more than half of whom are FM listeners. Pacifica's first station, KPFA in the San Francisco Bay Area, began operation in 1949. KPFK came on the air in July of 1959. The Foundation has also applied to the FCC to build a station in Washington, D.C. Several programs produced in the East will be heard here, thus strengthening our KPFK Folios. WBAI will be supported by New York subscriptions and contributions. We invite KPFK subscribers to send us the names and addresses of friends in the New York area who might be interested in receiving the first WBAI program Folio and in subscribing to the new station.

Terrell T. Drinkwater, manager of KPFK and Vice President of Pacifica Foundation, is taking a leave of absence from his position here for several months. Alan Rich will act as Operations Manager, and Catherine Cory will continue to serve as Vice President of Pacifica for the development of KPFK.

Andrew Dowdy has been added to the KPFK staff as director of literature and drama programming.

HOW TO USE FREE SPEECH WHEN YOU HAVE IT!

It often happens that those engrossed in the struggle for free speech and other civil liberties forget the capability of speech. What good is political right when the communications media are not so adventurous?

There is an obvious but neglected answer to that: the Little Magazine. The poet and creative writer, though unemployed, are rich with the aesthetic of free speech.

Where is the poet free of the "media"? On the air, it's KPFK. In print, COASTLINES LITERARY MAGAZINE.

COASTLINES LITERARY MAGAZINE for more than five years has published serious, sensible, Southern California writing. We also publish imported manuscripts from elsewhere. Many COASTLINES poems, articles, stories, reviews have been reprinted by NY Times, Evergreen, Best Articles and Stories, Frontier, anthologies, books and broadcast by Pacifica Foundation, KUSC and others.

COASTLINES has shown how the poet and creative writer can relate language to the living, depict and prophesy alternative futures, transcend the journalistic and administrative jargonese.

Why then should not you, too, cultivate the art of free speech by subscribing and contributing to Coastlines today.

Published by the California Quarterly, Inc., a non-profit literary organization.
